Note I previously suggested blank instead of _blank because, if used, it'll open a new tab and then use the same tab if the link is clicked again. However, this is only because, as GolezTrol pointed out, it refers to the name a of a frame/window, which would be set and used when the link is pressed again to open it in the same tab.

When opening a new tab in Microsoft Edge, either via the keyboard shortcut "Ctrl+T" or via the UI (click "+ New tab", selecting "New tab" from the menu, etc.) the page ...

I think if one creates a new branch like this one doesn't instantly have a copy of the old branch but simply a new pointer at the head of the old branch. But when you now do something like rebasing the new branch you should see that the old branch is still in its original state while the new branch is modified. So I think that does what the OP wants.
